EDITORIAL

Dear friends and members of RC41,

We are looking back on a year in which the COVID-19 pandemic loosened its grip on academic activities in most parts of the world. Activities explicitly tied to the framework of RC41 focused on organizing the program of the XX ISA World Congress of Sociology in Melbourne. Ofra Anson, our President and Program Coordinator provided a short report on the results of the call for papers for our Research Committee (see below). The congress will be held in a hybrid format, but hopefully many of us will have the chance to attend in person. It would be great to catch up again after all the time since Toronto.

At the ISA World Congress in Melbourne we will elect a new board for our Research Committee. Please make up your minds if you would be willing to run for board membership or if you would like to suggest somebody.

Registration for the upcoming ISA World Congress is open until Deadline: March 22, 2023, 24:00 GMT. Please register here: <https://isaconf.confex.com/isaconf/wc2023/registration/call.cgi>

USD 1,950.00 was allocated to RC41 for registration grants. If you wish to apply for a registration grant, please get in touch with Ofra Anson or with me by January 31, 2023.

A series of sessions on the topic of census taking hosted by RC41 at the virtual IV ISA Forum of Sociology has resulted in a manuscript of an edited volume, which will be submitted to Routledge in January 2023. The book is listed as forthcoming in the section on publications of this newsletter.

All the best for the New Year!

Walter Bartl

Dear friends and members of RC41,

The program for the upcoming congress is ready.

We were assigned 15 sessions by the ISA organizers of the congress. I am pleased to report that all sessions are full, that is, include at least four presentations. In total, 67 abstracts were accepted, of these 10 will be presented virtually, and the rest in person.

We have three joint sessions, two with RC55 (Social Indicators) and one with RC22 (Sociology of Religion).

As usual, one session is devoted to the business meeting. Please note that five years have passed since the last congress in Toronto, and it is time to elect a new board, a new president, a new secretary, and a new treasurer.

Prof. Ofra Anson,

President and program coordinator
